Stanford Glee Club in Second Annual Concert on Friday

This will be the last local press announcement for next Friday night's concert by the Stanford Glee Club at Arts and Crafts hall.

Impresario Hal Bragg announces that the boys will be here on Friday and Saturday nights and asks for volunteer hostesses to entertain them during their stay, following the precedent established last year, and judging from last season's personnel there should be no doubt of accommodations being oversubscribed. Send requisitions for boys to the Pine Cone. Following the concert the club will furnish music and themselves for a big dance.

On Sunday it is planned to hold a picnic at Point Lobos to which the whole town is invited. Bring lunch; Tamales and coffee will be served free. Weather governs, of course.

Concert tickets at the Palace Drug Store.

Campfire Girls to Have Organization will live long in the memories of the girls in Carmel. Today is the birthday of the national organization of Campfire Girls. It will also be the birthday of the Carmel Campfire Girls. The girls have been bubbling over with excitement at the thought of having an organization all their very own.

There will be four groups—namely, one for girls of 8 and 9, one for girls of 10 and 11, one for girls of 12, 13 and 14, and one for the older high school girls.

Each will have a campfire guardian to direct the work and play of the group and to bestow the honor beads which determine the three ranks of Woodgatherer, Firemaker and Torch-bearer.

The girls will design and make their own ceremonial gowns of khaki with brown leather fringe.

The girls under twelve will be known as Bluebirds until they attain the age required for Campfire girls, but they will be busy training for their future duties.

Campfire girls everywhere are preparing for a larger, richer womanhood along lines of civic, domestic, artistic and spiritual endeavor. The best in each girl is brought out and she makes lasting friendships, while at the same time she learns to love outdoor life and exercise.

There will be a week of camping for those who can go in summer.

The meeting for today will take the form of a campfire picnic, and all girls are invited. Bring your own lunch and come to the Forest Theater at 2 o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon.

Sage of Idlewild Wins Out in Partition Suit

Old "Cap" Charles W. Howland retains his valuable Idlewild camp site, down the coast twenty-four miles from Carmel, by decision of Judge J. A. Bardin, before whom the case was heard.

The matter involved the partition of 320 acres of land, brought about by the suit of John Brown and wife. Permission was also granted to maintain gates on the right-of-way.

Plans for New Theater are Adopted by Arts and Crafts

About twenty members of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts were present at the monthly meeting last Monday night and listened to reports of the president, Mrs. J. W. Hand, and various committees.

Dr. H. E. Spoehr stated that about $190 was taken at the last two performances for the Little Theater building, and deplored that the attendance was so small each night, especially the second, due to lack of community spirit of co-operation. He was pessimistic as to the probability of being able to pay for the erection and sustaining of the Little Theater. Others maintained that attendance would be greater when adequate heating facilities were forthcoming and the health of the audience assured.

J. W. Hand reported that bills were still coming in on account of the recent plays, but he thought there would be a slight balance for the theater. He added that in the early days when Mrs. Hand and he put on plays and charged twenty-five and fifty cents they had a goodly balance towards the club's funds.

Mrs. Hand gave a short talk on the new Knabe piano project and the encouraging results of Thomas V. Cator's campaign to raise funds. The piano was on view—the instrument used at the recent Schnabel concert. It is the intention to reserve this beautiful $1500 instrument for concert work and have another piano for dances and other uses.

Considerable time was taken up with the building plans for the new theater, and those drawn by M. J. Murphy were finally accepted. The simple wooden building, without lighting, heating or seats, was estimated at about $5450. To complete the work for occupancy it would take $7000, which the club hopes to raise easily, as $5000 has already been offered by members as a loan.

Miss Elizabeth White and Miss Louise Conger were elected as delegates to attend the district convention of the Federation of Clubs at San Jose on April 12. Miss DeNeale Morgan and Mrs. Kusey Kluegel were selected as alternates. John B. Jordan kindly offered to send them to the city in his car.

A nominating committee was elected to draw up a slate for the next meeting as follows: Miss Helena Conger, Mrs. Susan Porter, Dr. H. A. Spoehr, Herbert Heron and George Seideneck. It was emphatically stated by J. W. Hand that Mrs. Hand, who has been president for many years and upon whom has rested a great deal of the responsibility of making the club what it is today, would not be a candidate for the office again. Upon her retirement something really handsome should be done by the club in recognition of her invaluable services as an executive, producer and performer, not to mention her charm of character, and the manner in which she has presided as hostess for the innumerable affairs of the club. It will be difficult to find a successor.

After a great deal of discussion as to means of entertainment for visiting artists and other distinguished guests and of arousing a spirit of co-operation in community movements for the social and artistic life of the colony, the club adjourned.

Fate of Serra Play Is Still Undecided

The statement, published recently in a Monterey paper, to the effect that the Serra play would not be produced in Carmel this year, is not correct.

Garnet Holme was here last Sunday, and when shown the statement disclaimed knowledge that the play would not be put on this summer.

It is true that the Forest theater directorate has canceled the dates—July 17 and 18—originally assigned and asked by Holme's local committee, but as yet the project has not been abandoned.

It may be that a later date to use the Forest Theater will be asked for, or that the play may be given elsewhere.

The matter is only in abeyance, not abandoned.

Carmel Realtors Adopt Multiple Listing Plan

Prospective real estate buyers and sellers, doing business with any of the five realtors in this city will have greatly increased service through the action of the Carmel Realty Board in putting into operation the system known as the "multiple listing" plan. The scheme provides that whenever a piece of property is placed in the hands of a realtor, that property is immediately listed with the other realtors, thus affording the services of five firms instead of one, at no additional expense.

Ad Men Will Meet in Carmel

Our new Ocean avenue was just completed in time, for on April 18th, 14th and 15th there will be held here the convention of the California Advertising Service Association, having a large membership in all sections of the state.

The meetings will be held at the Inn, where the delegates will be housed. On the day prior to the convention's opening the directors of the organization will meet to map out their program of business, and on Saturday evening a banquet and dance will be given in honor of the visitors by John B. Jordan.

This body was to have met here last year, but for various business reasons was obliged to convene in San Jose.

This is the first of such gatherings as Carmel can handle, and the local chamber of commerce is encouraging other organizations to come here.

Gives Dinner in New Grill Banquet Room

The Monterey Grill banquet room, recently altered and enlarged by De Witt Appleton, was on Thursday evening given over to a complimentary dinner by Mr. Appleton himself to Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Dormody, recently located on Monterey Peninsula. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bickle and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Overstreet of Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Prince and Charles Frost of Monterey.

Carpenter Street Vacation Ordered by City Trustees

"What a place of enchantment and mystery it is—the little village in the forest by the edge of the sea," writes Annie Laurie, having in mind our own Carmel.

And Carmel remains just as beautiful, just as alluring, even though the city trustees on Monday evening last, at a special meeting, acceded to Paul Flanders' request that a portion of Carpenter street, in the southeastern part of the city, be abolished. City Attorney Argyll Campbell was instructed to prepare papers in condemnation proceedings to acquire rights of way for new road connections, in which matter the city will be protected by a $25,000 bond put up by Flanders. The resolution of intention was passed by a two to one vote, Trustee Maxwell voting "no," and Trustee Newberry being absent.

At this meeting also a resolution was unanimously adopted which has for its object the grading of an 18-foot roadway on Eleventh avenue, between Junipero and Viscaïno streets. The expense will be borne by the Carnegie Institute, Frederick R. Bechdolt, Calvin C. Hogle and Paul Flanders.

It was also ordered that one block on San Antonio street, between Ocean avenue and Seventh street, be improved with an 18-foot roadway.

The march of civic progress, the rapid growth of trees and shrubbery and the building of homes have resulted in the disappearance of the picturesque little path that used to lead down to Scenic Drive and the bath house. A committee consisting of City Engineer H. D. Severance, Dr. A. E. Burton and C. Sumner Greene was appointed to make a survey for a new roadway.

There is some difference of opinion between the planning commission and the chamber of commerce as to what should be done with the center strip on Ocean avenue. A compromise will probably be effected and the result reported to the trustees.

Personal liability insurance, with the premium $70 a year, was taken out on the recently acquired fire engine. The board also decided to move the fire house from its present location in the business district to North Carmel, a location having been ordered on the property of the Forest Theater. The small chemical engine will be housed there. The chief of the next meeting went over to the city.

Knabe Grand Sewing Machine

The committee in charge of the purchase of a piano for the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts, of which T. V. Cator is chairman, has made its choice of an instrument. It will be a Knabe concert grand. Many subscribers to the fund were in favor of a Steinway, but have foregone their choice in order that a piano may be obtained. Subscriptions continue to come in.

Off for Holland

Mrs. Daisy F. Bostick and Miss Tillie Polak got away on their long journey to Amsterdam and way stations last Tuesday morning. The two or three days prior to departure were strenuous ones. Passports had to be arranged for, income tax returns rendered, power of attorney arranged, etc. They may not be home until the middle of June.

Paper-Backs Hold Their Own

Though cheap paper-back novels are holding their own in popularity and light fiction has as many followers as ever, the book owner of today knows a good thing when he sees it and as a result, the number of valuable manuscripts found among the Salvation Army's book legacies is on the decline, according to statistics of the army just made public.

Gone are the days when rare editions poked their worn bindings from piles of cast-off books, whereas a few years ago the discovery of books valued at hundreds, even thousands, of dollars was not infrequent among the unwanted books collected by the army.

"Once I let an original copy of the Declaration of Independence, with all the signatures, slip through my hands for 2 cents," one officer reports. "The dealer afterwards sold it for more than $2000 and it is now in a private collection in Boston. But nowadays if people have anything worth coin they keep it."

The old-time paper backs are the army's best sellers and hold undisputed sway among the rows of textbooks, bibles, histories, biographies and varieties of fiction on the army's book counters, says the report.

Moreover, the "best people" buy them, according to the report. "Relaxation of nerves" and "diversion of their minds from work" are among the explanations offered by the prospective customers as they ask for one of the flashily garbed thrillers or love stories.

Peggy O'Neill Wins Johnny Bull

Peggy O'Neill, an American actress, may become a cause celebre because of her success in London. An intrepid manager secured the Theatre Royal Haymarket, for Miss O'Neill's second appearance in London, and in this historic playhouse, a playhouse which virtually reeks with kings and queens and nobility and aristocracy and everything this implies, Miss O'Neill won an artistic success which was even greater than that of the play in which she is acting, a play written by Horace Annersley Vachell and Harold Simpson, and staged by Sir Charles Hawtry.

The staid and conservatives of the British press and playgoing public feel that this theater should be held exclusive to the great native actors.

But Peggy O'Neill, with her winsomeness, her cleverness, her proverbial good-nature and a smile has completely won over to her side the British.

The old conception of an artist as a starved genius in a garret, pouring his life into a great inspiration and seldom getting adequately paid for it, gives way to the picture of younger artists making a comfortable income in a much easier way.—S. Study of Basketry Interesting

"A few hundred years ago our own ancestors were aborigines—they wore skins for clothes; wove baskets; lived in wicker and skin huts or in caves; ate nuts, herbs, acorns, roots, and depended upon the fortunes of the chase for their meats, just as the Amerind of the present and past generations are doing and have done. Hence, as Indian baskets are woven by human beings, akin to ourselves, and are used by them in a variety of relations of intensely human interest, we are studying humanity under its earliest and simplest phases—such phases as were probably manifested in our own ancestral history—when we intelligently study Indian basketry." So writes Dr. George Wharton James.

STEINWAY
The Instrument of the Immortals

IN the early days of the modern pianoforte, the Steinway became—and it has always remained—"the Instrument of the Immortals". Liszt, greatest of all pianists, pronounced the Steinway greatest of all pianos. Wagner, Rubinstein, Gounod and their brilliant contemporaries were equally quick to recognize and acclaim its pre-eminence.

Each year since those great beginnings, the Steinway has strengthened and increased its prestige with those who make and those who love great music.

One of the reasons for this is that the Steinway has always been made under the personal direction and the personal ownership of the Steinway family.

All the materials which go into a Steinway are available to the whole world—but a Steinway are transmuted them into Steinway at the genius which ends with Steinway. Steinway Tone begins and

To make a piano is one thing—to make a piano for the immortals is another.

Chopin, Schumann, Brahms, Liszt—the Steinway is their chosen instrument just as it was Liszt's.

Is there any wonder that the mere presence of a Steinway in a home is a token of musical authority and distinction?

We shall be happy to help you choose your Steinway.

WELL DONE, GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANT

The decision of Mrs. Mary E. Hand, for many years president of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts, not to be a candidate for that office at the forthcoming election, will be regretted.

Under her businesslike, wise and conservative regime the club has grown, prospered and been a very potent influence in the development of this city as an art and literary center and materially, and the organization has achieved not only national but international fame and recognition.

Mrs. Hand has well earned retirement from the onerous duties of the office which she has honored for so many years. The Carmel people owe her a vast debt of gratitude and good will for her splendid and enduring labors.

The Pine Cone will be pleased to do its full part toward any plan having for its object the bestowal of a substantial appreciation of Carmel's first lady.

AN ARISTOCRACY OF BRAINS

That the American system has avoided the establishment and domination of class has a singular proof in the present administration in Washington. Of the twelve men comprising the President, Vice-President and cabinet, nine have earned their way in life without economic inheritance, and eight of them started with manual labor.

Herbert Hoover, in a recently published book under the title, "American Individualism," declares:

"The pioneers of our American individualism had the good sense not to reward Washington, Jefferson and Mamliton with hereditary dukedoms and fixtures in landed estates, as Great Britain rewarded Marlborough and Nelson. Otherwise our American fields of opportunity would have been clogged with long generations inheriting their fathers' privileges without their fathers' capacity for service."

With the Monterey people the proposed improved roadway from the end of the asphalt on Carmel hill into Monterey is perhaps merely a question of bringing more money over the hill to their town, but to Carmelites who do something besides trade over there—who have social relations and who attend the Monterey theatres and social functions—the improved road will be very welcome.

Pacific Grove Musical Society in Third Concert

The Pacific Grove Musical Society is preparing to render in a masterly manner Stainer's "Crucifixion" for this month's offering. The time has been set for Good Friday, March 30, in the evening.

Rehearsals are going forward with splendid success and there is no doubt but that this wonderful composition will be rendered with utmost skill. The orchestra will play the accompaniment throughout.

Admission will be free, but to help defray the expenses it is planned to take up a silver offering. A number of Carmel parties are being made up to attend.

Monterey County Sunday School convention was in session this week in Pacific Grove. Speakers who addressed the delegates were Rev. C. E. Irons, William Gould, Bryant Guernsey, Rev. C. B. Fisher, Rev. George Butterfield, and Miss Cora Kilburn.

Our Scenery Extolled

"Nowhere in America or in the old world, for that matter, are there such wonderful views as those on the Monterey Peninsula," is the remark attributed to a recent visitor to this section. Anyone who has experienced the view of the bay of Carmel from the veranda of the W. H. Crocker home at Pebble Beach should admit the truth of this man's statement.

The Crocker home is one of the show places on the Peninsula. From the sea side of the structure broad expanses of sandy beach and the ocean stretching away to meet the blue horizon form a scene that will live forever in the mind of those who have seen it.

Gone on the Last Rodeo

The last of Monterey county's old-time vaqueros, in the person of Esparidion Vasquez, has swung his last lariat and passed on. He was born in Monterey in 1846. During his long career he was in the saddle for Miller & Lux, A. G. Oughaltree, Bradley Sargent, Sr., and latterly for Russell Brothers and the Hattons. He was a picturesque figure on his spirited horse and up to the day of his death was active.

PEBBLE BEACH

J. H. Manning of Fresno has determined on plans for his residence on a site near Midway Point on the 17-Mile Drive.

Col. John Hudson Poole of Pasadena is enjoying his beautiful Pebble Beach home, which was recently successfully remodeled.

Miss Marion Hollins, of Islip, New York, one of the famous women golf players in the country, recently made an inspection of her property at Pebble Beach, facing the golf course. She is having architects submit plans for a Spanish type of home.

James A. Mackenzie, of San Francisco, president of the California Golf Association, is considering the erection of a new home on his property at Pebble Beach golf course. Mr. Mackenzie has a beautiful site, with a commanding view of Carmel bay and Point Lobos.

Administratrix Named for the Signor Estate

The will of Mrs. Agnes D. Signor has been filed and petition made for letters testamentary to be issued to Helen G. Mueth, a niece of the decedent, who has had charge of her business for several months.

The estate consists of the Hotel La Playa, estimated to be worth over $25,000, and personal property (including $3800 cash in banks) to the amount of $10,000, other real estate value at $8500 besides an interest under contract to purchase in 51 lots in Carmel, the value of which is said to be unknown.

The will is witnessed by Attorneys W. A. Johnston of San Jose and Silas W. Mack of Pacific Grove, and leaves the property to Helen I. Lawson, a niece residing at Lawrence, Mass.; and to William Harrison Godwin and Frederick McKay Godwin, sons of Helen G. Mueth, a niece. Each of these parties is to receive an equal share with the rest. Helen G. Mueth is named as executrix without bonds.

Silas W. Mack is attorney for executrix.

Kremm Will Probated

The will of Josephine Marietta Kremm, who died here recently, has been filed for probate, the petitioner being Viola Cofer. Decedent left an estate valued at $15,000, including Carmel realty. Catherine Hurst of Baltimore, Hugh DeHaven, Jr., of San Francisco, and Viola Cofer of this city are named as legatees.

Hudson, Martin & Jorgenson are attorneys for the petitioner.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Kane, for many years connected with the Blue Bird tearoom, was a week endvisitor here.

The incidental music to be rendered in connection with the Forest Theater summer play, "Hassan," will be in charge of Thomas Vincent Cator.

Mrs. T. T. Grieves and her two daughters spent the week-end in their Monte Verde cottage, and will probably return later for the summer.

Gene Byrnes, well known national cartoonist, who resides here, left on Thursday evening for Los Angeles. He will be away a few days only.

After a week or more of shopping in San Francisco in connection with the Cinderella Shop, Mrs. George Clute returned to Carmel early in the week.

Miss Janet Prentiss, local librarian, and her assistants, have about completed the placing of books on the new shelves recently installed by Contractor M. J. Murphy.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Fitch and family from Hang Chow, China, are located in the Corrigan cottage on Camino Real. Mr. Fitch is secretary of the Union Mission in China.

Additional sale of stock in the proposed new Bank of Carmel were made during the past week. It is the desire of those interested that the institution be in operation before summer.

Mrs. Lewis Josselyn is making early preparation for a year's visit at her old home in Nantes, Brittany, western France, where her mother and other relatives reside. She will depart about June 1.

Rumor has it that the deal by which the Carmel Development Company building is to pass into the hands of Benjamin F. Wright of Monterey, president of the Palace Drug Company, is about to be concluded.

Another supply of vegetable seeds from the agricultural department has been received through the courtesy of Congressman Arthur M. Free, and are now being distributed at the Pine Cone office. Come and get yours.

That long stretch of roadway between the foot of Carmel hill and the City of Monterey, long the bane of motorists, is likely soon to be put in to first-class condition. The Monterey council has ordered plans prepared for a 22 foot roadway, similar to the state highway.

The real estate market is certainly active in Carmel just now. From week to week the Pine Cone has published a comparatively long list of property transfers, but in this issue the number exceeds all previous lists. It is quite likely that in a few months the Carmel Woods No. 2 addition will be put on the market.

The election for three members of the Carmel Sanitary District Board last Monday came and went as gently as a summer zephyr. Only twenty-nine votes were cast and the incumbents re-elected. Aside from the cost of election supplies the expense was $12, or at the rate of 48 cents per vote.

Turbulence in Ireland Halts Not Lady Gregory's Pen

Lady Gregory is again to the fore with a group of plays, such as she only can write. It is no wonder that there is always a multitude of reviewers who wish to write of this titled lady's work. Loretta Ellen Brady tells us about these plays in this wise:

"If you would like to spend an entire evening in continued laughs and chuckles read Lady Gregory's 'Three Wonder Plays.' The first, 'The Dragon,' is the tale of a king that marries a second time and gives his daughter a stepmother. Add thereto that the Princess Nuala rests under a prophecy that she will be ate up by a green dragon and there is a complication. Likewise the stepmother quarrels with the cook and leaves the old king dinnerless upon a hungry day. In the midst of this domestic upheaval comes the timid King of the Marshes, a suitor for Princess Nuala. She laughs at him and sends him off. So what with one thing and another bothering the old king, in a fit of temper he declares his daughter shall marry the next man to enter the palace.

"Down the road comes a cook, who, from the window and informally he can dress a dinner for a king. He does, but trouble comes when a second king brews new when a Nu. The suitor comes for Princess the cook demands her hand upon the king's own sworn oath, and there is such another stir and commotion as only an excitable Irish court could raise.

"Just here the green dragon is heard chortling without and the two suitors and cook rush to do battle with him. But the timid suitor runs away and the second suitor hides. So it is left for the cook to cut out the evil thing's heart and substitute the heart of a squirrel, which he had chanced to have in his pocket from making a pie. Through this bit of surgery the dragon is changed to a dovelike creature, and humbly begs a meal of nuts, in place of the Princess Nu. But never fear that the little Princess Nu had to marry a cook and go to living in a kitchen instead of a castle. For by a miracle of chance the cook proves to be none other than Manus, King of Sorchu, who owns seven castles on land and sea with provisions for a year and a day in every one of them!

"In 'Aristotle's Bellows' Conan is an Irish scholar, greatly worried about the decadence of the world in general, and his own family in particular. He finds a bellows with seven magic blasts and plans to change the universe to his liking. But do you remember the tale of the old woman that had three wishes granted and wished for black pudding? It is the same with Conan. Six of the blasts are put to such devious uses that the seventh must perforce be invoked to undo the mischief that they have worked. Conan is left with the world and his family exactly as they were. The quaint old Irish airs that the characters warble on every page add decidedly to the humor of the lines.

"The Jester, written for a boys' school, is a tale of five discontented little princes that changed places with five little urchins, known in Irish folklore as the Wrenboys. In the adventures of the Wrenboys, the adventures in the palace, and of the vagabonding, the play is five times reminiscent of the 'Prince and the Pauper.' But the ogre concerned is wicked of no one but his own self. Oh the terrible talk of the ogre! Enough to make the hair of every boy in the school stand straight on end. But the play ends happily. The five little Wrenboys are found out to be the long-lost cousins of the five little princes, and the ogre is changed to a rat, with every cat in the kingdom of Ireland after him, too."

Mr. and Mrs. C. Halstead Yates will be away for some time in Santa Barbara and Pasadena. They left last Monday.

Mrs. Charles Stanton is again sojourning in Carmel. She has been making her residence at the St. Francis in San Francisco for several months.

A large attendance is being prepared for at the Pine Inn dinner-dance next Saturday night. Manager Jordan is making quite a success of these fortnightly affairs.

Mrs. G. H. Hart and her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. Hart, spent several days in Carmel recently. Mrs. G. H. Hart is the cousin of Hobart Glassell. The Harts are from Philadelphia.

Cement sidewalk laying goes merrily on on Ocean avenue. It is expected that before the work is completed every business block on our main thoroughfare will have a cement walk in front of it.

Dr. Robert Fitch and family of China have come to spend a year in Carmel. They have taken the Corrigan cottage on Casanova street. The Fitches were all born in China and Dr. Fitch was a prominent educator there.

Only twenty minutes were required by a jury in Judge J. A. Bardin's court to determine that Police Judge W. H. Chadney was not guilty of accepting a bribe. Argyll Campbell was one of the attorneys for the defendant.

J. E. Foust, manager of the Salinas district, State Automobile Association, says the road leading from Soledad to the Pinnacles is in pretty fair shape. Foust traversed the road recently and was especially interested in the caves and peculiar rock formations that are to be seen at the end of the trail.

The building committee of the Arts and Crafts Little Theatre has awarded the contract for the new theatre to Michael J. Murphy, Carmel's oldest builder. Work will be started at an early date. It is the hope of Carmelites that it will be completed for the next winter season.

Five cup events are announced as the program for the Pacific Coast Polo Championship which will start at Del Monte, March 23, and run until April 15. This is the first time that the coast championship has been officially sanctioned by the American Polo Association and the interest is keener than ever before.

Mrs. R. T. McCusick and daughter and Mrs. E. L. Maddox of Sacramento have taken a cottage facing Carmel bay for the summer.

Mrs. Mary May, who has been ill in San Francisco, is much improved, is the word brought home by her daughter, Mrs. Ray C. DeYoe.

Probably as the result of his long and active eastern trip, Thomas S. Parkhurst is very ill at his home here. His many friends are hoping for a speedy recovery.

A fall from her horse, by which she sustained several minor but painful injuries, obliged Mrs. Mary Vink to spend a couple of days in Monterey hospital this week.

According to one of our house renting agents Carmel is to have a "big summer." Already practically every available large house has been rented for from one to six months, and the small dwellings "are going like hot cakes."
